Preface

The following report was prepared by University scientists through cooperative agreement, project science staff, or contractors as part of the ongoing efforts of the Interior Columbia Basin Ecosystem Management Project, co-managed by the U.S. Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management. It was prepared for the express purpose of compiling information, reviewing available literature, researching topics related to ecosystems within the Interior Columbia Basin, or exploring relationships among biophysical and economic/social resources.

This report has been reviewed by agency scientists as part of the ongoing ecosystem project. The report may be cited within the primary products produced by the project or it may have served its purposes by furthering our understanding of complex resource issues within the Basin. This report may become the basis for scientific journal articles or technical reports by the USDA Forest Service or USDI Bureau of Land Management. The attached report has not been through all the steps appropriate to final publishing as either a scientific journal article or a technical report.

Lichen Database Listing for Columbia Basin
Bruce McCune, 28 October 1994

The following records are sorted by species, physiographic region, and physiographic unit within each region. Where identifications are in doubt, those records are grouped separately under that species name, followed by a question mark. The records are primarily from McCune's herbarium, with supplemental records from the herbaria of Oregon State University, University of Idaho, Roger Rosentreter, and Ann DeBolt.
